

Sophos Endpoint Web Protection Add-on

Essential web protection has never been easier or more affordable

You’ve got concerns about the dark corners of the web – and rightly so. They’re the source of a lot of malware and inappropriate content. And if not tightly controlled, they can lead to serious productivity and liability issues. Until now, your choices have been limited. Sophos is changing all that – making it easy and affordable for you to offer essential web protection, even when users are off the network.

With this new Add-on we’ve integrated inappropriate site policy right into SEC, allowing you to keep users safe from the most unwanted web sites. Easily block adult, gambling, hate, and more. You can set web policy for the top 14 most inappropriate site categories right from within the Enterprise Console. Your users are protected from these sites wherever they go. And no additional software or infrastructure is required.

Web threat protection - everywhere

We’ve integrated our latest cross-browser web filtering technologies into our Endpoint agent. And it’s not just an annoying, temperamental browser plug-in. It seamlessly catches all the latest threats wherever your users go.

Inappropriate web policy control within SEC

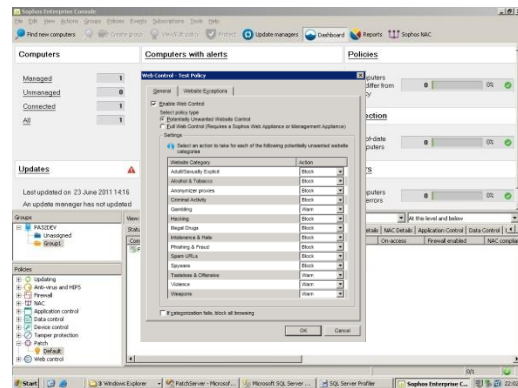

You can control access to the top 14 inappropriate site categories right within our Enterprise Console. Set categories like adult, gambling, and hate to “Block”, or use the “Warn” option to remind users their activity is being monitored. And do it all with just a few simple clicks.

Account for what your users are doing

User web activity is logged and viewable within the enterprise console so you can identify undesirable behavior or account for broader web usage.

Affordable and worry free deployment

Best of all – it’s all integrated. There’s no need for extra hardware, management software or endpoint agents to solve your essential web filtering needs. We’ve built it in.
